Dickens as Social Reformer.

To my mind the greatest social reformer that we ever had, and one of the greatest that the world has ever seen, was a man of letters, one of the two greatest names perhaps of modern literature—Charles Dickens. That great writer points out that all the inheritors of that time—and we are the inheritors of that time—had their origin in the appalling circumstances in which the working people lived—in London, of course, which he knew best, first of all, but in like degree all over the country.—Viscount Burnham.

Wheedling a Lion.

Lions are not tempted, like other animals, to strict obedience to their trainer's commands by the offer of luscious foods. Practically every animal but the lion is taught to do what is wanted by giving it a reward every time it does it or makes an effort to, either a lump of sugar or a vegetable or a bit of fish or some other thing of which it is fond. This is impossible with the lion, as it eats only meat and is only allowed a certain amount of that. This increases the difficulty of the lion tamer.

RIGIDLY EXCLUDE FRESH AIR

French Seemingly See No Reason Why It Should Ever Be Admitted to Bedroom.

Europeans do not like fresh air, writes Theodore Roosevelt in Average Americans. They feel a good deal like the gentleman in Stephen Leacock's story who said he liked fresh air, and believed you should open the windows and get in all you could. Then you should shut the windows and keep it there. It would keep for years.

I have been in many rooms in France where the windows were nailed shut. The beds also are rather remarkable. They are generally fitted with feather mattresses, and feather quilts. Very often they are arranged in a niche in the wall like a closet, and have two doors, which the average European, after getting into the bed, closes, thereby rendering it about as airy and well ventilated as a coffin. I remember my own billet in one of the towns where we stopped. As I was commanding officer, it was one of the best and was reasonably warm. It was warm because the barnyard was next door, literally in the next room, as all that separated me from a cow was a light deal door by the side of the bed. The cow was tied to the door. When the cow slept I slept; but if the cow passed a restless night I had all the opportunity I needed to think over my past sins and future plans.

In another town an excellent billet was not used by the officers because over the bed were hung photographs of all the various persons who had died in the house, taken while they lay in that bed.

FEAR SPREAD OF BLINDNESS

Scientists Alarmed by Reports From the Oasis Towns of the Great Sahara Desert.

A plague of blindness is sweeping the oasis towns of the Sahara desert, according to a dispatch received at Washington from Biskra. Dr. Toulant, of the Pasteur Institute of Ophtalmology, who is conducting experiments on a herd of monkeys in an effort to isolate the germ which is blinding tens of thousands of Arabian children, has informed the American Red Cross that eight of every ten children in the Sahara are now affected.

The white nuns of the Sahara are treating the eyes of hundreds of children. With Biskra, "the Garden of Allah" oasis, as their headquarters, they tour the desert on camels, visiting the oasis town where the plague is at its worst.

With the approach of the hot months it is feared the disease will become even more widespread. The filth of the oasis towns and the uncovered camel meat market breed countless millions of flies even during the winter months. Flies are believed to carry the germs of granular trachoma, with which in northern Africa 100,000 Arab children are infected.

Postal Air Service.

After the signing of the armistice the British authorities established a postal airplane service to Cologne, and in connection with this service systematic use was made of wireless telephony, says the Halifax Morning Chronicle. Wireless telephone stations were placed on the ground at distances of fifty miles from each other, and with the use of quite small sets were able to transmit messages to aircraft up to thirty miles away. They could also receive from the air to about fifty miles. Frequently these distances were exceeded and an airplane was in communication at one and the same time with three stations. Considering the small size of the apparatus employed these were remarkable results; and testify to the rapid progress made by the British air service since the first trials of wireless telephony to airplanes in 1915.

World's Diamond Trade.

Considerable activity has prevailed in the diamond trade in British Guiana within the past few months, and prices have advanced to a high level heretofore unknown, states Consul McCunn in a report. Expeditions are being dispatched to the diamond fields in the interior by those interested in the business in Georgetown. It is currently reported that the English market is eager to absorb any quantity of stones, large or small, and that they are being bought not only for English but also for American markets regardless of present exceptionally high prices.

With a total population of 31,000 in western Samoa, of which less than 1,000 are whites or half castes, the demand in confectionery is mainly for hard candies, better known locally as boiled lollies, retailing at 25 cents per pound. These are small varieties, differing in color and flavor, and imported in five pound tins. Lozenges are little known, taffies and chocolates suffer from the extreme humidity of the climate, which necessitates their being imported in sealed metal tins, retailing from 50 to 75 cents per pound.

Swiss Crops Poor.

The crops in Switzerland in 1919 were considerably below those in 1918, with the exception of the fruit crop. This was due to unfavorable atmospheric conditions, a cold and wet spring, drought in early summer and again in late summer, followed by sudden falls in temperature and early frosts, and to the fact that the acreage planted in 1919 was smaller than

HOOVER—THE DEMOCRATIC PAWN

The Republican Publicity Association, through its President Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., today gave out the following statement from its Washington Headquarters:

"Is the Hoover candidacy a carefully planned scheme to disrupt the Republican party and make it possible for the Democrats to win once more notwithstanding they are in the minority among the voters of the country? While Mr. Hoover may not knowingly be a party to such a scheme many incidents justify the conduction that he has been induced to become a candidate by individuals who seek a means of causing a split in the Republican party.

"It will be remembered that among those who were guests at the dinner to Lord Grey, when the Hoover candidacy is believed to have been launched, there were present Colonel House of Texas, the reputed closest friend President Wilson has; also the publisher of the New York World, a never-failing supporter of the Democratic party and its candidates; also other men who although not identified with the Democratic party have been insistent supporters of the British-Wilson League of Nations. The leaders in the Hoover movement were Democrats and those Republicans in the gathering, if any, have never been associated with a Republican organization. Whether they are in fact Republicans may be seriously doubted.

"The movement, therefore, bears all the earmarks of Democratic origin. Judging from its inception there is no reason to believe that the scheme was concocted with the idea of promoting Republican success. Having launched the movement with a nation-wide publicity never before equalled in American political history and with and organization unsurpassed, the candidacy has been wished upon the Republicans. It is evident from expressions coming from Republicans of all factions that Mr. Hoover's candidacy will not find favor at Chicago and the reasons are not partisan or factional. In the first place, nearly all the mature years of Mr. Hoover's life have been spent abroad promoting British industrial interests. He was of course, out of touch with American public affairs. He has no training or experience which particularly qualifies him for the direction of public business in America. In addition to that, the language of the statement he has issued concerning his candidacy shows that it is his desire and intention to dictate to the Republican party. He said that he will accept the nomination if the platform can not be framed until the meeting of the convention at which the candidate will be selected, this means that Mr. Hoover must be accepted as a dictator or not at all. If he is accepted as the dictator of the Republican party and nominated and elected as such, he will be in the position of being a dictator to the United States Government as Mr Wilson has been during the past seven years.

"Of course, self respecting representatives of the Republican party will not nominate a man who takes such an attitude as that. Leaders of the Democratic party have sufficient political sagacity to know that such is the case. Foreseeing such an outcome at the Cicago Convention, they probably expect Mr. Hoover to become an independent candidate and swing the election to President Wilson or his residuary legatee. If the Democrats and other League of Nations advocates who sprung the Hoover candidacy had been sincere, and without hidden purpose, they would have endeavored to make Mr. Hoover the Democratic nominee. They never had any such intention but apparently desired merely to use a candidacy which they hoped would be made the means of dividing the Republican party and consummating minority rule."

ADULT ILLITERACY

There is no longer need of concern about the education of American children, victory in the battle for definitely disposed of a lingering peril. But there is an adult illiteracy that still needs attention in many States and the work that Georgia is doing in this particular is well worthy of wide attention. Georgia's compulsory education law brought approximately 40,000 new children into the public schools but the State was not content to stop there. A little less than a year ago a determined campaign against adult illiteracy was begun, a commission put in charge with $12,500 to start the work and already there are surprising results.

By the end of last February 1,800 night classes for study of reading, writing and simple arithmetic had been formed with an enrollment of 20,055 persons, both negroes and whites. The former, it is reported, showed a greater readiness to take advantage of the opportunity many illiterate whites having a false pride that made them reluctant to admit their need of the classes. Up to the date mentioned 7,453 adults had actually learned to read and write. A special textbook adapted to the needs of adults is used by special instructors engaged in this work and the 1500 regular teachers who are giving a large amount of their spare time to such instruction. We read that many editors of daily newspapers are contributing to the work by following the suggestion of the commission that they send their issues to the adults who have learned to read. Persistence in this admirable undertaking should in no great while cause adult illiteracy virtually to disappear, and so excellent a plan may well serve as a model in other States.

ORDER.

Order is the law of the Universe and the only disorderly creature is man. The stars keep their courses: the seasons progress without deviation a hair breadth from the law laid down by their progression: the fish in the sea: the animals on the surface of the earth: the birds in the air, all live in complete obedience to the will of the Creator. Man alone is disobedient, denying the law and defying the Lawgiver. If the rest of the Universe for one full minute of sixty seconds could adopt the attitude of mankind, then indeed would come the crash of matter and the wreck of worlds. The law-defying man is the cause of his own destruction.

NAVAL BILL PASSED.

The naval appropriation bill carrying approximately $465,000,000 for 1921 expenditures has passed the Senate. Maintenance of the present naval force of 137,000 sailors and 20,000 marines is provided for in the bill. It appropriates $108,000,000 to complete the 1916building program of 156 vessels, to be finished in three more years at an additional cost of $361,735,000. but does not provide for any extension of that program.

About a month ago one of the Administration court journals, after flaying the "liars" who declared that Mexico was in a state of turmoil, declared that under Carranza the southern "republic" was more nearly pacified than it had been for ten years. And this is a fair sample of the brand of information upon which the Wilson administration has been proceeding in Mexico ever since it got us into war in order to put Carranza in the Presidency.

The attempted use of church organizations by certain short-sighted ecclesiastical leaders to promote the Wilsonian brand of internationalism will not swerve the American people from their patriotic devotion to fundamental Americanism, but it has undoubtedly done and is doing harm to the great cause in which even these Wilson partisans are presumably promarily interested.

On a recent Sunday in St. Louis 68,188 attended church and 149,595 attended the movies. How many "took in" both in the course of the day is not stated, but the number doing so was doubtless large.

DAY SET APART FOR FOOLING

Practical Jokes Common to April 1 Have Been Indulged in for Many Generations.

There is much uncertainty respecting the origin of All Fools' day, April 1, when for generations the people of many lands have held it quite permissible to play practical jokes on one another. Some think it had its origin in a miracle play of the middle ages, performed at Easter time. The custom of sending one upon a bootless errand on the first day of April has been supposed to be a travesty on the sending hither and thither of the Savior from Annas to Caiaphas, from Caiaphas to Pilate, from Pilate to Herod and from Herod to Pilate, for these scenes in the Savior's life formed the subject of the miracle play performed at Easter, which usually occurs in the month of April. Others think it more probable that it is a relic of some old, heathen Celtic festival. It is believed that both England and Germany derived the custom from France. In France one thus imposed upon is called "un poisson d'Avril" (an April fish). In England such a person is called "an April fool." In Scotland a gowk. Gowk is the Scotch for cuckoo, and also signifies a foolish person.

INSISTED ON HAVING CANDY

Liberal Supply of Caramels Necessary to Make Horse Pose for Statue of Lafayette.

Horses can be temperamental at times, as Paul W. Bartlett, the sculptor, found when he sought to induce a high-spirited animal to pose quietly in his West Fourth street studio, the New York Evening Sun says. The sculptor is now working on the statue of Lafayette, which is to be presented to the city of Metz in France by the Knights of Columbus.

An aristocratic as well as an artistic horse was needed for reproduction as Lafayette's mount. After some searching, Mr. Bartlett got in touch with the proper animal and invited him down to the studio. Part of the door and side of the building were removed to get the horse into the studio and when inside he promptly knocked over several plaster casts of considerable value, especially to the artist.

After a preliminary experiment Mr. Bartlett was delighted to find that under the soothing spell of the caramel the wonderfully lined animal would stand contentedly chewing for long periods while the wily sculptor transformed him into a statue, so to speak.

Messages to Mars.

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz estimates that a wireless station for the transmission of signals to Mars would cost in the neighborhood of a billion dollars, rather more than any enthusiast would be willing to spend on the remote chance of establishing such communications.

The Sperryscope (Brooklyn) suggests that transmission of signals by light is entirely practicable. It says:

"Presupposing that the Martians possess telescopes which are at least half as powerful as our own, our estimate is that some 150 or 200 of the Sperry high intensity searchlights, each over a billion candlepower, would be sufficient for this purpose. If operated together they would appear as a star of the seventh magnitude to the inhabitants of Mars, and a light of such brilliance would, of course, be easily discernible through a telescope in clear weather."

Beautiful Martinique.

Martinique, where 18 years ago occurred one of the worst volcanic disasters that human history has ever known, is one of the important islands of the West Indies retained by France in the desperate fighting for their possession. The capital, Fort-de-France, is an amazingly picturesque town at the head of a beautiful bay. Tourists have been prompted to term Martinique an ideal paradise. It is a lotus land of perpetual summer, with an endless variety of highlands and lowlands. Martinique also has the serpent of Eden, the dreaded fer de lance, which is the only poisonous snake found on any of the islands north of Trinidad. It oftentimes grows to a length of six feet, is quick and powerful, . . . its poison works almost instantaneously.

In the sugar factory at Pecky, Bohemia, successful experiments have been made with the manufacture of saltpeter from the waste liquids of the mill. It is calculated that under normal conditions the beet sugar factories of Czecho-Slovakia will produce 6,000 to 7,000 tons of saltpeter annually. This quantity is considered sufficient for the production of explosives. In Ragne a corporation capitalized at 15,000,000 crowns has been organized to manufacture explosives under a permit of the government. The factory will be located at Pardubice, but the offices of the corporation will be at Prague.

From the Earth to the Moon.

According to the Journal of the Royal Artillery, a shell with a muzzle velocity of five miles a second, if fired at the correct angle, would become an attendant satellite of the earth, and would go round it in a little less than one and a half hours. If the speed were increased to seven miles a second, the shell would go into space altogether.

This store has over One Hundred and Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of merchandise on hand and over 80 per cent of it goes on sale at a tremendous reduction, and with one exception, we know of no item that can be replaced except at advanced prices. The opportunity is yours, but you must act at once. Prices rule only until June 1st or until goods sell out. We want to tell you that Charleroi's Leading Store is in this great movement for price reduction because we believe it to be for everybody's good--yours--our own--and business generally. 20 per cent off means one dollar back out of every five.

There is sweeping across the country a protest against the High Cost of Living—from every direction inquiries are asking who is to blame. Many are accused and few convicted. Every investigation reveals the important fact that no one seems to be to blame. The question is a large one indeed—but will be settled in time. As one of the middle men between producer and consumer the store has constantly fought advancing prices on merchandise--but neither the smallest or largest dealer has been able to do much more than protest. We denounce advanced prices with all our power only to place orders for goods we must have. Raw materials are constantly higher.

It has seemed an endless chain of raising everything. There is an effort being put forward by the great stores of the country to break this endless chain. Start a great selling campaign for less regardless of the fact that raw materials and wages have not broken.

Thunder and Lightning.

Thunder is caused by electric discharge of lightning. This discharge, in forcing its way through the atmosphere, heats the air and vapor lying in its path to a high temperature, causing a violent expansion along the whole length of the flash. The result is a deep compression wave or what is the same, a noise. Lightning is the flash of the electric explosion.

Origin of "Eleventh Hour."

The "eleventh hour" means figuratively the last minute, or as we sometimes express it, "just in the nick of time." The expression now in general use, comes from the parable narrated in the gospel according to St. Matthew of the laborers hired for the harvest.

After Thirty-Four Years.

A Bath man has just received dividend checks from some shares of a silver mine which he bought 34 years ago and had forgotten all about. A friend who remembered the purchase told him of a notice in some paper that the mine was about to pay its first dividend and he began to cut coupons. —Grit.

"Life-Plant."

There is a creeping moss found in Jamaica called the "life-plant." It is believed to be indestructible by any means except immersion in boiling water or the application of a red-hot iron. It may be cut up and divided in any manner, and the smallest shreds will throw out roots, grow and bud.

Were Built to Endure.

The Egyptian engineer who built the famous water works at Aden constructed the masonry so well that the services of a plumber never have been required. These water works were built 3,000 years before the Christian era and are the most celebrated and antique in the world.

"Highgate."

The word "Highgate" is derived from a gate erected over 400 years ago to receive tolls for the bishop of London. At one time all travelers who tarried at Highgate taverns were required to take an oath never to eat brown bread while they could get white.

Preventive for Cold Feet.

A recent patent covers a shoe to cure cold feet, a heated plate being inserted and the heat being retained by the close-fitting construction of the shoe ankle.

Ancient Honduran City.

Copan is an ancient ruined city of northwestern Honduras, on the Copan river. The remains are of unknown antiquity and very extensive, stretching for about two miles along the river. The buildings are of stone, embracing a temple over 600 feet long, with many sculptured figures. The Copan ruins take their name from a modern town to the east of them. This was an Indian stronghold, and was taken after a fierce struggle by the Spaniards under Hermando de Chaves in 1530.

"Bosker Time" Is Cheerful.

The term a "bosker time," which the Australians use to describe a cheerful leave, comes home to its birthplace, little altered. "Bosky," with a similar meaning, was an English colloquialism in the eighteenth century. And "bosky" is still current slang with us, but implying too generous use of the wine cup. There is one phrase in the book of slang which is decidedly pleasing, "Australian grip." It stands for that best of greetings, the honest, hearty hand shake.—London Chronicle.

These Balance Men.

I profess no special partiality for any critic, who, holding balance in hand, weighs eagerly whatsoever of learning comes to his counter. I question whether he is not taking less of the quality of the wares, than of the fashion of his scales, never questioning their accuracy nor his own levity. Still it must be admitted that these balance men are not without their usefulness, being convenient for appraising market values.—A. Bronson Alcott.

"Kitchen Middens."

Kitchen middens are great mounds, some 100 feet long and 250 feet wide, found in Denmark, England, Scotland, France and in parts of Europe, North and South America and Australia. They are supposed to be the refuse heaps of prehistoric periods, and are composed chiefly of oyster, periwinkle, cockle and mussel shells. In them are found implements of wood, stone, bones of animals and cinders.

Stars in a Dream.

To dream of stars is said to have the following meaning: If the stars were clear, Dame Fortune is going to smile upon you, but if they were obscured and dusky, then the reverse may be the case.

To Tell Age of Fish.

Year rings on the scales of fish are used in Norway and France to determine the age of sardines, whether they have reached their full growth and when they will spawn.

ALARMED AT DREAD DISEASE

Spread of Sleeping Sickness Threatens Entire World, According to Scientists of Prominence.

Sleeping sickness, called encephalitis lethargica by the doctors, seems now to have become a domestic evil, says the Medical Record (New York), in quoting a study of this formerly rare disease by Doctor Lhermitte in a French medical journal.

It appears that the disease is epidemic all over the world and that it manifests itself in many forms, the only symptom possessed by all in common being that of deep and prolonged sleep.

In true encephalitis lethargica there are four cardinal symptoms—ocular paralyses, hypersomnia, fever and the general state. The ocular paralyses may be absent at the outbreak of the disease, but once present they are characteristic. So, too, is the type of hypersomnia. It is a narcolepsy, but the subject does not arouse quickly, as in the condition which commonly goes by the name and in which the seizures may be only momentary. However, the permanent sleep may be preceded by narcoleptic crises.

Doctor Lhermitte notes hypertension of the muscles and a state suggesting catalepsy. Tremors are often manifest; the temperature goes to 104 degrees F. He says a Wassermann test and examination of the spinal fluid should always be made.

OLD FISH MARKET MUST GO

London's Famous Billingsgate Forced to Succumb to the Inexorable March of Time.

Billingsgate, London's old-time fish market, is about to move. The course of time and the modern difficulties of transport are responsible for the plan to remove to another site more easy of access, and in which space will not always be at a premium.

Billingsgate was the most important quay on the Thames in late Saxon times, and fish, among other things, were landed there. By the time of Edward I the market was fully established, and the king, who was a confirmed food controller, fixed a tariff of maximum prices. This list included one dozen best soles, 6 cents; best mullet, 4 cents; best haddock, 4 cents; best Thames or Severn lamprey, 8 cents; gallon of oysters, 4 cents, and best porpoise, 12 to 16 cents. The best fresh salmon, after Easter, were to be sold at four for $1.25. That was in the days when the Thames was full of salmon, and one could catch flounders and flatfish on a line dropped over London bridge. The water is still salty during high tide, but the sea fish do not come up any further than Gravesend, which is 20 miles lower down.

Compensation for Dark Days.

"There are not many happinesses so complete as those that are snatched under the shadow of the sword." Some of life's brightest blossoms bloom along its hardest ways, and looking back on days of poverty, sickness and hardship we often see the choicest treasures of love and loyalty that we have ever known. Anyone may share our joys with us, but the one who shares our trials comes close in a friendship that will never be forgotten. An outsider, pitying the weary attendants in a sickroom, cannot know how near to heaven its companionships often lie, nor what blessed bits of happiness are snatched under the shadow of the suspended sword. The dark days have their compensations.—Montreal Herald.

Varieties of Potatoes.

One potato may be big enough to provide a meal for a good-sized family. People in Virginia like them that way. In northern markets, however, the demand is for potatoes of a modest size. In Europe potatoes are grown of different kinds for different purposes. Certain varieties are raised for cooking and others for starch making and distilling. Over there they have a so-called "stock potato," which is not used for human food at all. It is very large and coarse of texture. The yield to the acre is twice the ordinary, and the tubers, being exceedingly rich in starch, are great alcohol producers.

It is stated that after the signing of the Austrian peace treaty in Paris, Paderewski, who represented Poland, shook hands with the other allied plenipotentiaries, using both hands for the operation. The celebrated pianist was not always so free with his magical hands. Some years ago, while shaking hands with a friend, his fingers came into contact with the lighted end of a cigar, and for a day or two he was unable to play. Thereupon he heavily insured each of his fingers, and to reduce the chances of such a happening again he made it a rigid rule not to shake hands with anyone.

Explained.

Henry's father was a golf enthusiast; therefore Henry knew all about the game. One time he was asked:

"Henry, why is it that men that play golf always yell 'fore' instead of 'look-out' or some such thing?"

Henry thought for a second before an inspiration came from looking at his young sister, who was diligently getting her arithmetic.

"You see," he replied, "it takes too long to yell 'toot-toot,' and that sounds so much like 'two-two' that they just add them together and yell 'four.'"

GLASS THAT CAN BE BENT

New Invention Declared to Be Suitable for a Number of Useful Industrial Purposes.

A new substitute for glass or for lacquer has been invented. It can be cut with shears or with a knife and, when heated to more than 100 degrees Centigrade, it forms a kneadable mass which resumes its previous hard state on cooling. It is known as "cellon."

Under the patents of Dr. Eichelgrun, a company is making cellon in the form of a solid or liquid solution of acetyl cellulose in camphor, either white or colored, transparent or opaque. It appears in slabs, or tube form, as well as in the form of a plastic mass, as putty to be used for lagging purposes or as an anti-rust liquid.

The hard vitreous cellon is bendable and springy and insensitive to cold water, soap, fat, alcohol or petrol. When burnt in a flame it drops off like shellac, without, however, being as combustible as the latter. Cellon varnish, which can be allowed to harden or solidify into flexible layers, is suitable for many industrial purposes. Liquid cellon can be used for impregnating textiles or for making insulating tape. In this latter form it can be taken from the round box in which it is wound up, even in the moist condition, and allowed to harden in air.

USE FOR "TANKS" IN PEACE

French Have Put Frightful War Machines to a Variety of Highly Useful Occupations.

The French appear to be ahead of us in finding a use for tanks in peace times. A considerable number of French tanks which are comparatively small sized are now employed for transport purposes about the yards of large industrial works; others are used as farm tractors, while the larger tanks are replacing horses for traction along the wide paths of the great French canals.

The latest and perhaps the most remarkable employment which has been found for these machines is in connection with mountain climbing for tourists. For this purpose the armor, and of course all the fighting apparatus of the tank are removed and a carriage or superstructure capable of carrying from ten to twenty passengers added. The seating is either arranged longitudinally or crosswise. Very steep grades can be taken, while the machines easily cross small streams and make their way through brushwood, tall grass and over the roughest roads.

Japan's "Year of the Monkey."

Every year, in a series of 12, is known in Japan by the name of an animal, as in the signs of the zodiac; and this is the year of the monkey. Consequently the many millions of New Year cards exchanged were for the most part decorated with simian representations of various kinds. The year of the monkey is not considered a propitious one for marriage, as the word saru (monkey) also is a verb which means "to leave," and there is a superstition that all who marry in the monkey year are likely to leave their partners, who might otherwise be partners for life. Consequently all the couples who intended entering the married state in 1920 had to rush the ceremony through in December of 1919, keeping country registries and shrines very busy during that month. The post office had a gigantic task in delivering the hundreds of millions of New Year cards dispatched the day before the first of January.

Resourceful Traveler.

Ole the Bear (A. R. Westerberg), mail carrier between Revelstoke, British Columbia, and Downie Creek, 45 miles up the Big Bend, succeeded in accomplishing a feat that establishes a new record in this district. The great depth of snow up the Big Bend, together with the heavy crust caused by raining and freezing, made it practically impossible for a horse to travel the roads, but Ole conceived the idea of making snowshoes for his horse, which he did out of birch, constructing them circular in shape and more than a foot across. For protection he covered the horse's legs with blankets, and thus he succeeded in making Revelstoke in three days without harm to himself or horse.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Every true university should make room in its scheme for life out-of-doors. There is much to be said for John Milton's plan of a school whose pupils should go together each year on long horseback journeys and sailing cruises in order to see the world. . . . John Burroughs has a college on a little farm beside the Hudson and John Muir has a university called the Yosemite. If such men cross a field or thicket they see more than the seven wonders of the world. That is culture. And without it all scholastic learning is arid, and all the academic degrees known to a man are but china oranges hung on a dry tree.—Henry Van Dyke.

Beat Him to It.

The company had been marching for two solid miles without a rest and Recruit Sullivan, holding the exalted rank of No. 3 in the rear rank, first squad, had about come to the limit of his endurance. Finally, just as he was about to give up the ghost and drop, the captain gave the command, "Company, halt."

"By the lord, captain," groaned Sullivan, as he eased off his pack, "you took the very words out of me mouth."—The Home Sector.

A Tasteless Castor Oil

A remarkable new process, perfected by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., one of the world's largest manufacturers of castor oil, has made castor oil absolutely tasteless. Strength and purity remain the same. Nothing has been removed but that nauseating taste. This valuable new form of the good old family remedy is strongly recommended by up-to-date doctors and druggists. Children take it without even knowing it is castor oil. Take no substitutes. If you want a really tasteless castor oil, insist on Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil, laboratory bottled, plainly labelled

CHARLEROI TO BENEFIT FROM PRESENT PRICE-CUTTING CAMPAIGN

Local Store Announces It will Join with other Leading Stores of Country

WILL BENEFIT BUYING PUBLIC

Charleroi is to share in the nation-wide campaign now under way and which has for its purpose the breaking of the backbone of high prices. This movement has been under way for several days, merchants realizing that something must be done in order to forestall a further advance in the price of commodities, and particularly in dry goods and men's clothing. This campaign is spreading from coast to coast, and ultimately will embrace every city and town in the country.

Just where or how it originated is not important; the fact is, that merchants who have large stocks have begun to realize that the people are not buying; that men particularly are willing to wear their old clothes a little onger, and patch them if necessary, rather than stand for the prevailing prices, which have reached such a high altitude. Big department stores also report that their stocks are not moving as fast as usual. t heir women customers failing to be attracted by the prevailing high prices.

This condition of affairs has resulter in a move in many shopping centers looking toward a big reduction in price, in order to move the goods from the s helves. and at the same time release a large amount of capital tied up in greatly increased stocks.

Realizing the trend of events the firm of J. W. Berryman & Son have announced a great sale, which will begin Saturday and which offers substantially a reduction of twenty per cent off the usual price. The firm has just completed a great advertising campaign with reference to this sale. and as an evidence of good faith they offer to show the cost of each article offered by a duplicate of the order placed and the invoice for the same. As the firm says, this is their contribution to lower the high cost of living, and an effort to make the prices so attractive that they will be within the reach of every customer.

The firm realizes that it will be difficult to replace many of the articles at former prices, but they are willing to take their chances with the rest of the trade, in the hope that conditions may finally force the manufacturers and jobbers to recede from the high figures they have been charging and are still charging for goods. The people are in no mood to buy high priced stuff; the dealers realize this, and eventually those higher up and who control prices must be brought to the same realization. The Berryman store. however is contributing its share towards this campaign for lower prices. and are willing to give the people of Charleroi and surrounding country t he benefit of the campaign now sweeping over the country.

RENTS WHARF FOR COAL DOCK PURPOSES

The borough of Elizabeth has rented its wharf for a period of years at $30 per month, upon which the lessee will erect a coal dock to load barges by river. This "dump" will be quite in contrast to the river structures which formerly stood on the river banks of that community and which in the days gone by caused Edirot Dick Wiley of the Herald to refer to his home town as the "capital" of "Old King Coal."

FOREIGNERS RETURN TO THEIR HOME LAND

Hundreds of foreign born residents of Monessen are clamoring for passports and tickets on various steamships, in order that they may visit their home lands in Europe, but owing to the heavy demand and the lack of passenger steamers, many who had anticipated a visit to other countries during the early summer months are finding it impossible to make the trip. Last week several hundred who had made application months ago were finally rewarded with the announcement that steerage passage could be secured and they left immediately for New York. It is estimated that the average amount of American money carried away by each of the passengers would amount to $2,000. Practically all of those who left for Europe had hopes of returning to America their visits being merely to visit with relatives and friends in their home land and whom they had not seen during the past six years, owing to the world war.

DREDGING COMPLETED FOR NEW COAL DOCK

The work of dredging for the new Coal dock of the Pittsburg Steel company, being erected for the Monessen plant in front of theblast furnaces, was completed on Thursday. The dredgeboat Kanawha had been at work on this job for several weeks, and has made a good harbor for the improvement. The dredge, as well as scows and flats in use during the time this work was being carried on, was taken away yesterday by the s teamer W. H. Warwick, which was acting as tender. Other work on this improvement, in charge of the Dravo Contracting company, is being pushed with all speed possible.

DONORA TEACHERS RECEIVE INCREASE

At a special meeting of the school board of Donora, held Monday evening, the corps of teachers for the coming year was elected. Most of the old instructors were re-elected, while a number of new ones were chosen. The Board had more applicants than they had places to fill.

The estimated budget for schools for the coming year is over $300,000, which must be met by taxes from various sources

A huge truck of the American Steel and Wire company went through the Webster-Donora bridge Tuesday afternoon, near the Donora side of the river. The truck was loaded with seven tons of wire at the time and all that saved the machine from falling into the river was the street car rail. A force of workingmen was employed during the entire afternoon lifting the truck from its position, although traffic was not interrupted.

According to an announcement made Wednesday morning by the Monessen freight agent, the entire force at the P. & L. Several weeks ago these employes were given a vacation but were recalled this week, and business at the offices is being carried on as usual.

Freight conditions on the Lake Erie were reported as being much improved on Tuesday, a large number of coal and coke trains passing over the division. One hundred experienced railroad men from New York are reported to have been placed at Newell, having arrived on Sunday to take the place of the strikers, which act made it possible to put on additional crews.
